Bayard's Lost Opportunity.

It is probable that Mr. Bayard has missed a fine opportunity of signalizing his accession to the secretaryship of state by a manly and patriotic display of firmness in dealing with the despot Barrios. A stern notification from Mr. Bayard that the United States would not permit his threatened invasion of Nicaragua would no doubt have caused the instant relinquishment of his designs, and would certainly have made a good impression upon this country. But with the same timidity that has characterized him as a legislator Mr. Eayard hesitated, and the world moved on without him. He was in doubt in 1861 whether we could, a nation, coerce a state in rebellion, and the union was restored after a four years' war before he made up his mind that secession was a crime, if he has yet. His fears of the effect of the amendments provented him from accepting them as the egitimate fruits of the war until after they have become a part of the organic law of the land. Throughout his entire career as a senator his mind has been clouded with doubts and his extreme eautionsness has deprived him of the power of decision upon vital questions.

On Veh. 8, 1877, the so-called Thillmany rocess of preserving wood by drawing the water from its porce and injecting auccomive solutions of blue vitriol and of barytes was adopted by the department, and the American Wood-Preserving Company, which owned the patents, were by contract of that date authorsed to erect the apparatus for impregnation naide the Boston mayy yard, in order to apply the process to wood which might be fur-nished by the department for treatment, the company to be paid for the impregnation of such wood 14 cents per cubic foot also provided that the government might at any time, if it chose, purchase and take pos-ression of the plant at its actual cost to the company, which was duly ascertained to be

After the impregnation of wood for the departiment had been continued under this coning the business proved to be unsatisfactory, sudthe department notified the company that it elected to purchase the works, machinery, and plant and do the impregnation itself, and the transaction was so completed and the above-mentioned amount of $48,823.96 paid the company on the 3d day of February, 1885, from the appropriation for the construction and repair of vessels.

The original contract of Feb. S, 1877, was entered into after a careful examination and recommendation of the process by competent experts; the results of the use of the process in the preservation of wood used upon versels have been highly satisfactory, as proved by many like examinations by exports, and it is believed that it is important to continue to so impregnate all ship's timber and all wood Al in the construction of ships. The arangement for the ownership and operation of the works within the navy yard by a private company has been found to be highly objectionable, leading to many difficulties, which will be obvious to any one on reflection, and the only alternative seemed to be for the government to exercise its right of taking possession of the works and carrying on the

The Second Cabinet Meeting. The President has made a change in the days of holding cabinet meetings, so that here-after they will be held on Tuesday and Thursday of each week, instead of on Tuesdays and Fridays, as heretofore. The cabinet met promptly at moon yesterday under this arrangement. All the members were in attendance. The session was partially devoted to considering the general policy to be observed by the administration in the matter of appointments. The principal subject under consideration, however, was the Okiahoma matter. A telegram had been received at the war departation, however, was the Osiahoma matter. A telegram had been received at the war depart-ment from 6cm, Hatch, stating that the boomers were gathering in large numbers, under the impression that the preclamation of President Arthur forbidding settlement of the disputed country was inoperative after the close of his administration.

In the senate yesterday Mr. Manderson memoia to serve mon the territory or stroy the integrity of the republics of Near-us, Hondaues, San Salvador, and Costa-ca, &c., which resolution was under the less laid upon the table temporarily. Mr. Van Wyck called up his resolution, ored on the preceding day, directing the relay of the interior and the attorney gen-tic laid against the control of the control of the pre-secretary of the interior and the attennoy gen-cral to take steps to prevent the sale of lands granted to the state of Florida model in the construction of railroads in that state. Mr. Van Wark sent to the there's deak and had read a letter written by H. J. Simonton to lton. Thomas R. Cobb, charman of the hone committee on public banks, setting forth the hardships experienced by settlers upon the granted lands by reason of the oppressions of the pressure of the committee of the connom in indemnity limits. The grant was nade in 1856, when the land was not worth li made in 1856, when the laud was not worth 10 cents an acre.

These near were to invest private property and to improve the country, and yet for thirty years they had done nothing upon that position of the proposed line in question. In the meantime other capital had developed that country. Homestenders and pre-emptors had gole upon the land, and now, wen it had increased to 55, 810, and 315 an acre, the grantees came and asked the government to still further recognize their title to the uncarned lands.
